

It is World War 2 and brothers George and John and their sister Eva are each fighting in their own way. Secret agent George parachutes into Nazi occupied countries in an Operation codenamed Zinc, John breaks codes, while Eva is stranded in enemy-occupied Hungary.

Based on the extraordinary real-life stories of Sue Klauber's father, uncle and aunt, she wrote Cobalt and Zinc for her son, to celebrate the full and heroic engagement of their North London Jewish family in the fight against an evil tyranny.

Sue Klauber is an experienced fundraiser and former media educator. She has produced films made by refugee children from Columbia, Kurdistan, Kosovo, Afghanistan, Eritrea, Iran, Armenia and Romania, worked as a fundraiser in arts and social care charities and is now the Trusts and Foundation Lead for a charity where she monitors grants across areas of residential care, community centres, physical disability and Holocaust survivors' services. Zinc was published in 2022 and Cobalt, the continuing story of Eve, John and George's involvement in the war effort was published in September 2024.

Sue will give a PowerPoint presentation and talk based on:

- Stunning photos of Sue's family
- Explanation of the work of code-breakers at Bletchley Park and agents for Special Operations Executive
- Dramatic WW2 posters promoting secrecy
- A reading and book signing

Aimed at Years 6-9 and adults with an interest in World War 2
